November 1978

My Brethren:

We have arrived at the autumn of the year - a time when we pause to give thanks to our Creator for our manifold blessings and comforts. A time to be thankful no matter how great or how small these blessings may be. I ask you to consider for a moment the beauty displayed by the Grand Artificer of the Universe at this particular time of the year. The foliage, the winter fowl flying south, the whole realm of nature at this time of the year.

Consider also the less fortunate - those who can not observe and enjoy these blessings. When Thanksgiving arrives and our tables are spread with plenty, remember your blessings and be thankful for them, also remember those that are less fortunate with a thought a visit or a kind word.

Fraternally,

J. DOUGLASS ABDILL
Worshipful Master
