To My Brethren All:

When you reflect upon the mysteries of your entire existence, and remember the sheer pleasure that you derived whenever a problem was solved, or an occurrence explained, and the significance and satisfaction that these occurrences gave to you, then you must necessarily remember the occurrences that you could not solve and the problems you could not easily explain away.

When you first unlocked a closed door, or caught a baseball in flight, or observed the sun, moon, and stars in the Heavens, these appeared to be immense occurrences, and the wonderment which filled your mind, gave an appearance to you of inaccessibility to their solution.

But, through the passage of time, the educational process which you enjoyed, and the God-Given ability to think and reason, you were enabled to either solve or accomplish these tasks which in your youth, seemed of such magnitude.

In the progress of age, mysteries and problems necessarily become of greater enormity, but the solutions, when logically attacked and commonly addressed, are just as comfortably solved.

"The mysteries of the Fraternity have been presented to your view". The problems involving the preservation of the Fraternity have also been made known to you.

With diligent work, fortitude of purpose, and constant care of each and every member, our ideals and purpose can yet be accomplished.

Fraternally,
GARY LAWSON,
Worshipful Master
