Brethren;

"Freemasonry is a progressive science. As we advance in its mysteries, we find that a proper knowledge of it can be acquired only with time, patience and application, and that our appreciation of the sublime principles will be in proportion to our fidelity in observing its precepts."

On more than one occasion, I have heard it remarked to a newlyrisen brother: "You will get far more out of freemasonry than you will ever put into it." Do we fully appreciate this concept? Too often we pay lip service to our dedication, not truly comprehending what can be gained from daily application of the principles of freemasonry.

New levels of understanding and insight come first from consistent and active involvement in the meetings. This kind of commitment results in numerous rewards, one of which is the feeling of accomplishment of a well-performed task. Another benefit of wholehearted participation is the realization that we are carrying on a wealth of time-honored traditions. The very words that were spoken by early masons pass our lips; the same mysteries that were theirs are available to us. It is our privilege and honor to partake of this knowledge

While active involvement in the meeting is crucial, you will reap true riches when the knowledge you gain at them is applied to your daily life. Only then will the inherent rewards of freemasonry become evident.

It would be a shame to go through the brotherhood never having tasted its full experience. I urge each of you to explore what freemasonry has to offer — but more importantly, what you have to offer it.

The old addage is indeed true — you get out of it what you put in.

Fraternally, E. Lee Myers Worshipful Master
